Hello!

My name is Brian Montgomery and I am the owner of Express Funding Solutions. I have to admit that I love what I do for a living! That may sound silly to some people but please understand that each day, I get to work with men and women just like you who are taking advantage of all of the opportunities this great country offers. This very fact is what makes my job so enjoyable. We help business owners realize their personal goals by helping them gain access to that precious life blood of business called "Capital" by utilizing our lease and finance products.

I once read that "You can have everything in life that you want if you can help enough other people get what they want." That advice has been the cornerstone of our business plan since entering the leasing industry over 10 years ago. We operate under the simple philosophy that people do business with people they trust. For this reason, we are proud of our extensive vendor and client portfolio and even more so for the number of clients who have chosen to work with us on a repeat basis and we invite you to join the family!

People who work with us often comment that we don't operate like a bank. Well, that's because we are not a bank; we are a successful commercial equipment lease and finance brokerage company that represents many banks and their products. To explain the difference, allow me to paint a picture. There was a time in America when a long distance telephone call was sure to be expensive and made from a phone that was black in color. When the market finally opened to competition, we soon had choices available that included land lines, cell phones, email and fax machines, I could go on for a while but you get the point. The same is true today when it comes to sources of funding your business needs. You are no longer limited to the one option of your local corner bank. Your options are plentiful.

Our goal is simple. We don't think you should have to be an expert at obtaining financing for your business...that is our job! We evaluate the competitive offers from the market place and present you the best option for your business. So take some time and look around and if you have questions, I encourage you to give us a call and let us help you get everything that you want.

Equipment Leasing

Equipment Leasing can be a very effective tool for keeping you competitive in today's marketplace. The ability to obtain new equipment or upgrade your existing equipment is key to your continued growth and profitability. Whether it is a deferred payment plan, structured step plan, or seasonal payments, we can put the pieces together, unlocking capital for your growing business needs!

EFA/EFC

Equipment Finance Agreements and Contracts are perfect for those companies who wish to maintain ownership of their equipment throughout the term but like the idea of spreading the investment over a period of time. They understand that many times, paying cash for equipment simply isn't a sound financial decision. Would you pre-pay your employee 3 years in advance? Of course not, yet both employee and equipment earn their money by the service they perform each day. Keep the cash, let the equipment pay for itself.

Working Capital Loan

Working Capital Loans are excellent solutions for those capital requirements that fall outside the scope of normal lease and finance agreements. When capital infusion is what is needed; whether it is for a remodel of your facility or a new advertising campaign, the working capital solution can be your key to success.

Finance Line

The three to six month project requiring multiple payouts over time and high probabilities of cost over runs. This has always been a challenge for the typical lease and finance agreement. Fear no more, that has all changed with our FinanceLine. Ultimate flexibility, the ability to submit invoices for payment over an extended period, interest only payments due on the outstanding balance. These are just a few of the reasons why our FinanceLine offers the ultimate flexibility while allowing you the freedom to succeed.

Express Funding Solutions is a proud member of the National Association of Equipment Leasing Brokers. The largest equipment leasing association in the US and leading source of industry education, advocacy, and ethical standards recognition.
